

If you're wondering why we suffer from so much political chaos and dysfunction, and how we might fix things, consider this: You are never allowed to listen in on any conversation between your Congressional Representative and a corporate donor's lobbyist. That's where your interests get sold down the river, but you never learn of the corruption until it becomes official policy. If you want genuine democracy, you can expand your voter-power by acting well before Election Day, demanding a commitment from every candidate to (1) body cameras and microphones on every politician when discussing public business with anyone, (2) posting all political conversations and written messages on the internet daily, and (3) monthly televised conversations with citizens. The body politic cries out for reliable information and the voice of The People through public dialog. For further information: www.Voters-Intervene.org, a do-it-yourself movement.

If you're wondering why we suffer from so much political chaos and dysfunction, and how we might fix things, consider this: You are never allowed to listen in on any conversation between your Congressional Representative and a corporate donor's lobbyist. That's where your interests get sold down the river, but you never learn of the corruption until it becomes official policy. If you want genuine democracy, you can expand your voter-power by acting well before Election Day, demanding a commitment from every candidate to (1) body cameras and microphones on every politician when discussing public business with anyone, (2) posting all political conversations and written messages on the internet daily, and (3) monthly televised conversations with citizens. The body politic cries out for reliable information and the voice of The People through public dialog. For further information: www.Voters-Intervene.org, a do-it-yourself movement.

If you're wondering why we suffer from so much political chaos and dysfunction, and how we might fix things, consider this: You are never allowed to listen in on any conversation between your Congressional Representative and a corporate donor's lobbyist. That's where your interests get sold down the river, but you never learn of the corruption until it becomes official policy. If you want genuine democracy, you can expand your voter-power by acting well before Election Day, demanding a commitment from every candidate to (1) body cameras and microphones on every politician when discussing public business with anyone, (2) posting all political conversations and written messages on the internet daily, and (3) monthly televised conversations with citizens. The body politic cries out for reliable information and the voice of The People through public dialog. For further information: www.Voters-Intervene.org, a do-it-yourself movement.

If you're wondering why we suffer from so much political chaos and dysfunction, and how we might fix things, consider this: You are never allowed to listen in on any conversation between your Congressional Representative and a corporate donor's lobbyist. That's where your interests get sold down the river, but you never learn of the corruption until it becomes official policy. If you want genuine democracy, you can expand your voter-power by acting well before Election Day, demanding a commitment from every candidate to (1) body cameras and microphones on every politician when discussing public business with anyone, (2) posting all political conversations and written messages on the internet daily, and (3) monthly televised conversations with citizens. The body politic cries out for reliable information and the voice of The People through public dialog. For further information: www.Voters-Intervene.org, a do-it yourself movement.